PAINFUL TETTER ON HANDS AND FACE

Broke Out in Red Salotches. Would Itch and Burn. Could Not Put Hands in Water.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

Since childhood I had been a sufferer fre n tetter. My hands and face would break out in great red splotches which would itch and burn and be quite painful t times. The skin was very sore and inflamed and the itching would get so bad that I would just have to scratch the parts affected. At times I could not put my the wind. It was very disfiguring and I

"Then I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I saw at once that it relieved me. I then got a large box of Ointment and a cake of Soap and the result was simply marvelous for in two months I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. J. R. Furrow, 1257 Windsor Ave., Bristol, Tenn., July 15, 1915.

nev. Arriving in Paris, the children are bathed—often receiving there their first bath in months—given warm clothing and then sent to the colonies maintained by the committee and other similar organizations.

In some instances the entire population of an orphanage is taken charge of by the Franco-American committee, as was the case with the children of the orphanage, in a letter described the orphanage, in a letter described the conditions at the institution during the bombardment of Ypres, and detailed the flight of herself, the other sisters and the children to Poperinghe and later to Paris. At Poperinghe the children and the sisters stayed all of last winter in a granary, sleeping on the floor with only a little straw for bedding, and using their bundle of clothing for pillows. In her letter Mother Alphonse wrote:

Girl students at the Colonial School are to give an entertainment at the home of Alexander Graham Bell, 1331 Connecticut avenue, the evening of February 10, receipts of which are to give an entertainment at the home of Alexander Graham Bell, 1331 Connecticut avenue, the evening of February 10, receipts of which are to go to the Twentieth Century Club for use in the relief work for the "frontier crphans," or orphans of the war zones in northern France, Belgium, Alsace and Lorraine. The Twentieth Ceatury Club, of which Mrs. Edward B. Clark is president, is co-operating with the Franco-American committee in Paris in relief work among these orphans, most of whom have no relatives and who are dependent wholly on the committee for food, clothing and shelter.

During her stay in Paris last fall Mrs. Ernest P. Bicknell, a member of the Twentieth Century Club, became interested in the work of the Franco-American committee for the relief of the frontier children and war orphans, and obtained much information relative to the work the committee is doing, as well as data as to the distressing obstacles in the way of adequate work and the urgent necessity for assistance in caring for the orphaned girls and boys.

"Ypres is only distant from Watou about ten miles and a number of times one of the sisters and I went back at the peril of our lives to bring provisions, butter, flour, salt and soap, as weil as lace and embroidery. Since we were compelled to walk and that in the middle of the winter, we could only bring back with us what we were able to carry. Many of our valuable possessions were confided to people in other houses where the cellars were large and dry. Unhappily all of these houses have been destroyed by hombardment or fire so that nothing remains to us.

Our dormitories were riddled with bullour dormitories were riddled with bullou were all about, cupboards were broken open and contents destroyed, beams shattered, tiles torn up, large pieces of shattered, tiles torn up, large pleces of the walls carried away and the roof broken in many places. Such was the sad aspect of our orphanage in the month of February. And in addition to that, all the clothing, bed linens and furniture had disappeared. To us the sight was heart-breaking and at each visit we saw greater damage as the condition grew rapidly worse. One time after we had walked the ten miles and arrived at the gate of the city we had to return without entering as the danger was too imminent and the entrance forbidden to all civilians. Another time a shell passed over our heads and burst a short distance away. Once a great shell exploded at a few hundred yards from our building and two houses were destroyed and we were lifted up by the shock. These are only a few instances among a thousand. At the present time the incendiary bombs have, so it seems, accomplished their work of destruction and the orphanage exists only in name.

"The Divine Providence preserved us through the winter from all serious illness. We were thankful for shelter where we could have the necessaries of life. But now the bombärdment of Poperinghe began and soldiers poured into Watou. Shells came nearer and nearer each day. The refugees had to move on.

"In the month of May we received the good news that the Franco-American committee, so charitable and so generous, would receive us and we went to Paris, where we were met by the members of this committee and conducted to a magnificent place called Les Ombrages, parish of Sainte-Ellzabeth, near Versailles. Here we have been provided with all that we need, though we on our side are doing what we can to aid in our support by our lacemaking and embroidery. We shall be eternally grateful to all those who have helped us in our time of trial and when we return to our own country we hope to take a list of these people with us that we may put it in a place of honor to remain as a witness of that generous hospitality with which we were received and cared for when far away from our own land."

LOOK FOR THE BIG CLOCK"

CAREER FOR QUALIFIED YOUTH

Any young man with an adventurous disposition who does not care where he goes to look for excitement may find all he wants by making application to the United States civil service, which has announced itself as on the hunt for a man to handle bees. Moreover, he is to han dle bees on the Pima Indian reservation in Arizona. He must be an expert handler of bees and must know all about them, and which end to touch and which end to shun. For his knowledge and his services the government offers him $1,000 a year.

To make sure he will have all the excitement he craves the civil service commission announces that he must spend his time gathering and taming the wild and untamed bees of Arizona; and after showing them the delights of a modern four-story, steam-heat-and-bath hive into these bees and rob them of all the honey they have collected under disposition to go on a jamboree and bite their keeper would seem adventurous enough, but there is a further inducement. The young man'is also expected to interest the Pima Indians in the corralling of wild bees and to show them the trick of making a million of these hot little workers lay up a ton or two of honey, only to give it all up without a struggle. Just what will happen to that young man if both Indians and bees suddenly get sore on him has not been mentioned by the bul-

MOVEMENTS OF CUTTERS IN COAST GUARD SERVICE

Vessels the Past Winter Period Occupied Principally With Routine Work.

Thetis Sails From Honolulu to Visit Bird Reservation-Official Orders Issued.

It has been several years since the winter cruising season of the vessels of the coast guard fleet has been as devoid of stirring interest as has the present one. There have been no storms to cause wrecks on the coast, and the men on the cutters employed in winter cruising have had little to do other than routine duty. The cutter Miami, on the Key West station, was called upon several days ago to go to the ald of the schooner Otis, reported in distress about twenty-five miles in distress about twenty-five miles southeast of Sand Key. The cutter went to the position indicated and found the vessel full of water, but with crew still aboard. She was towed into Key West and the Miami numped her free so that she could discharge her cargo and repair.

Picks Up a Derelict.

Picks Up a Derelict.

A report from the commanding officer of the cutter Onondaga at Norfolk tells of picking up the derelict two-masted schooner Anna of Phoebus, Va., eighteen miles south southeast of Cape Henry and of towing her into Hampton ton roads, where she was finally turned over to her owner. The vessel when found was lying on her beam ends, but her cargo of lumber kept her affoat. When her main stay was cut away the mast fell out and the hull came back on even keel, making it comparatively easy for the tow into port. The drift of the abandoned vessel was rather remarkable. About two weeks ago while bound from Norfolk to Weems, Va., with lumber the achooner capsized in a heavy northwest gale off the Wolf Trap light station. She drifted down the bay across numerous shoals and out of the capes and when picked up was fully fifty miles from where she cansized. and when picked up was fully fifty miles from where she capsized.

service, but has done and is still doin efficient service on the north Pacifi and the Strait of Juan de Fuca. and the Strait of Juan de Fuca.
Incoming steamers report a sunken scow about three and one-half miles east of Little Egg harbor, on the New Jersey coast. The vessel is in nine fathoms of water and is showing but one end above the surface. It is described as a very dangerous obstruction to navigation, and it is probable the cutter on the New York station will be sent to locate and destroy it.

Visits Bird Reservation.

January 24 the cutter Thetis sailed from Honolulu on one of her regular Midway group of islands out in the Pacific. The object of the visit is to see how the birds are flourishing and to ascertain if there have been any depre-dations by poachers. The report of the visit of the cutter to the bird haven will be awaited with much interest.
